Saturday's talk: Navigating the Terrain of Childhood

9:00 – 12:00

As parents, we want our time with our children to be both meaningful and memorable. But the truth is, given the demands of modern life, it can also be challenging.

This workshop will offer participants an important tool for successful parenting, a developmental roadmap of our children's journey. This roadmap will help us note where the terrain is predictably challenging and where our parenting is put to the test.

Please join us.
