

What: Being a Child in the GardenWhen: The weeks of June 19, June 26, July 10, July 17, July 24, and July 31 (Monday through Friday)*Time: 9:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. (4 hours)*Grades: 4th - 6th*Participation Fee: $215 for each week (minimum of 10 and maximum of 20 participants per week)*Location: Garden

Gardening teacher Jill Bell wants children to experience the many joys of being a child in a summer garden. Things such as pulling carrots, digging potatoes, picking handfuls of fresh green beans for snacking, planting seeds, and pulling weeds. There will be plenty of time for playing with roly pollies, counting lady bug spots, and digging for wiggly worms. Time for turning cartwheels between rows of vegetables, running through the sprinklers, and making mud pies. When the days get hotter, children will hide from the sun in the cool shade of the trees and drink lemonade and enjoy a snack. Time will be spent lying on the grass watching bees buzz around the flowers or observing a spider weave its beautiful web to catch delicious bugs.

What to bring: A lunch from home, water, a hat, sunscreen, gloves, and wear long pants and sturdy shoes (no flip flops or sandals).

Taught by Phil Carter, throughout the week students will learn about time signatures, tonal modes, styles of music, and the instruments used to make them. Students will build a basic wooden/goat skin drum and put some of their learning to practice in a culminating drum circle upon the completion of the drums. This is a fast paced and somewhat demanding course. Students will gain knowledge of woodworking and leatherworking skills, music theory, influences of music throughout the last century, and will significantly expand their rhythmical knowledge and ability. An existing desire to work with one's hands and a sense of rhythm is recommended.
